

Greg Maguire

Greg currently serves as Director of Government Affairs and heads the Legal Department at Revision Military. He obtained his law degree from Seton Hall University and his undergraduate degree at Fairfield University. He lives in Montpelier. He previously worked for the State of Vermont, as Director of the Vermont Procurement Technical Assistance Center and, before that, running a state program that brought new airline service to Vermont, including jetBlue. Before that, he served as the Director of Rail, Air and Public Transportation.

Revision manufactures personal protective equipment, selling their product to over 75 countries. It employs over 300 employees in Vermont and is located in Essex Junction and Newport.